

Quality of life considering health risk reduction in Bolivia

Potential air pollution source

Among the cities reporting to the WHO, Bolivia's cities have high levels of poor air quality , which is derived from rapid urbanization and open-burning , resulting in lower quality of life.

In this study, we measure several air pollutants (e.g., BTX) and research happiness of life to local residents.